

Nyepi in Lombok

Lombok, Indonesia, 21 February 2017 - This year, Nyepi Day falls on 28 March 2017. Celebrating the new year of Saka, Nyepi is as important for Lombok Hindus community as it is for their co-religionists across the strait in Bali. From the religious point of view, Nyepi is meant to be a day of meditation. The purpose is to give time to the people to do self-introspection to decide humanity values such as love, patience, and kindness. This sacred day is taken seriously as there will not be any activities allowed. These prohibitions include no pleasure (amati lelangan), no traffic (amati lelungan), no fire (amati geni), and no work (amati karya).

The rituals of Nyepi is observed in some areas in Lombok, especially in Kampung Bali (Balinese habitation), but life is going on normally in most places. The streets are not blocked off and the daily activities are going on normally. Lombok is the best place to experience Nyepi Day without contributing yourselves much to its rituals and rules.

Sheraton Senggigi Beach Resort is pleased to welcome guests who want to experience Nyepi Day in Lombok as well as those who escape from Bali for the day rather, due to restrictions that surround the observance. Stay with us and plan some visit to certain places (such as Cakranegara) to find out the highly animated and colorful tradition of Ogoh-Ogoh parade, held in the evening of the day before Nyepi (27 March 2017). In contrast to Bali, Lombok Ogoh-Ogoh parade underlines the cultural mix of the city, in which the other religions communities freely mix and interact. Harmony is something the city authorities are proud of and work to advance through shared acceptance of traditions.
